SPY HUNT SPREADS TO CANADA

Torrance To Fight Ouster

HARRISBURG (UP)—Suspended Pennsylvania Turnpike Commissioner James F. Torrance, of Export, indicted by a Dauphin County grand jury earlier this week, today announced he will fight his suspension by Gov. George M. Leader in court.

Torrance said also that a telephone conversation he had with suspended Commission Chairman G. Franklin McSorley, of Pittsburgh, leads him to believe McSorley will follow suit and also take the governor into court.

At Pittsburgh, McSorley answered questions regarding his intentions by saying, "You'll have to talk to my attorney, Harold McCamey." The lawyer was not available for comment.

Leader announced the suspension of the two commissioners late Friday after expiration of the 5 p.m. deadline he had set for McSorley and Torrance to "withdraw voluntarily" pending the outcome of the indictments returned against them. Torrance was indicted for involvement in the Manu-Mine swindle scandle and McSorley for permitting a commission employe to work for former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans while on the commission payroll.

To Name New Member

The governor made his suspension of the two commissioners effective Wednesday, Jan. 30 to give the state Senate time to act on the nomination of a commissioner which he will send the Senate Monday. This would assure a quorum and preclude the possibility of a technical default on the commission's bond indentures.

In disclosing his intentions to fight the suspension in court, Torrance said:

"We have responsibilities not only to the commission and the bondholders but to ourselves. So, I will challenge the governor's action."

Torrance said as a result of his telephone conversation with McSorley he expects McSorley to make a court challenge also. Mcsorley was not available for comment.

Study Leader Plan

HARRISBURG (UP)—A top General Assembly Republican leader said today he wanted to "carefully study" an administration proposal to reorganize the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to determine what effect it would have on turnpike bondholders.

House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (McKean) said Gov. George M. Leader's plan to replace the commission with an unsalaried board of outstanding citizens should be weighed carefully.

"I'm naturally out to save the Commonwealth money, but we have to consider the some $400,000,000 in outstanding bonds held by firms across the country," Johnson said.

Leader said he will ask the Republican controlled Legislature for a drastic reorganization of the commission now scandal - ridden with 22 persons under indictment on criminal conspiracy charges in an alleged multi - million dollar swindle of turnpike funds over the past several years.

Nation Chilled Again by New Arctic Blasts

By UNITED PRESS

A fresh gust of Arctic weather frosted highways from the Midwest to the Atlantic Coast today, and threatened to blanket all but a small corner of the nation by tonight.

The belt of chilliness sent autos skidding and temperatures toppling. A blend of freezing rain, snow and drizzle coated roads with a dangerous slickness Friday, especially in the eastern half of the nation. This swath of precipitation moved into the East Coast states early today, but the Weather Bureau forecast it would move off over the Atlantic later today.

Meanwhile, the western two-thirds of the country shivered in below-zero temperatures, and indications were that by night-time all but the extreme southeast corner of the country would feel the colder air. A large chunk of Montana and the western Dakotas registered early morning readings of 20 degrees below zero. The lowest readings, however, were in western Montana, where, according to the Weather Bureau, "30 below is common." Helena, Mont., reported a nippy 39 beow early today.

Light snows fluttered over northeastern California. Montana and Colorado. The area from the Great Lakes eastward through Ohio to the coast was in for a liberal basting of snow, with the greater amounts falling along the seaboard. Light rains fell from Virginia southward to the Gulf of Mexico.

As the wintry air snorted eastward, mercury in parts of the western plains eased upward a few degrees. Freezing drizzle was forecast for a section ranging from northern Texas through Arkansas and into Tennessee.

Father Receives $16,200 Verdict For Son's Death

William DiFlorio, Sr., of Monessen, yesterday was awarded $16,200 damages for the death of his son, William DiFlorio, Jr., in a traffic accident in a Westmoreland County civil court trial before Judge John M. O'Connell.

Defendant was Jack Fitzwater, a former Monessen resident now residing in Belle Vernon. Fitzwater did not appear to contest the suit and was not represented by an attorney when the case was called in court.

The verdict included $13,500 damages under the survival act and $2,700 additional under the wrongful death act.

The suit alleged that on April 24, 1955, an auto operated by Fitzwater attempted to overtake and pass another car on the Monessen-Belle Vernon road, Route 906. Fitzwater's vehicle then ran into a motor bike on which young DiFlorio was riding.

The accident caused injuries resulting in the latter's death, according to court testimony.

India Acts To Take Kashmir

NEW DELHI, India (UP) —The former princely state of Kashmir today officially became a part of India. Its incorporation came in open defiance of United Nations Security Council.

The "integration" of the 84,470-square mile territory into the Indian union coincided with India's Republic Day. It lent added enthusiasm to the celebrations.

Hundreds of thousands of Indians were jammed along the parade route in New Delhi more than five hours before the march began.

The formalities for Kashmir's incorporation by India were wound up Friday night. The Kashmir constituent assembly at Jammu in Indian-held Kashmir dissolved at midnight after completing the task of framing a constitution and thus becoming a legal part of India.

Bakshi Ghulam Mohamad, premier of the Indian-held sector of the state tucked under the Himalayas, said "we are not bound by the U.N. resolution, which is against our country's interest."

The resolution passed Thursday by a 10-0 vote with Russia abstaining, called on India to maintain the status quo in Kashmir until its future was decided by a plebiscite under U.N. supervision.

Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, although obviously shaken by the 11th-hour U.N. resolution, said Friday India would go ahead with the scheduled absorption of Kashmir. He was informed of the vote while seeing Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai off at the New Delhi airport.

Students Protest

KARACHI, Pakistan (UP) — About 20,000 hysterical students virtually took over Karachi today in wild demonstrations against India's "integration" of Kashmir.

Police lost control of the surging mobs until the arrival of heavy reinforcements.

Several foreigners were reported manhandled by the rampaging students. Their nationalities were not immediately ascertained.

Throughout the city, organized groups burned hundreds of effigies of Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru. Screaming teenaged students, wearing black armbands, swirled through the streets carrying crudely-lettered placards calling for a free plebiscite in Kashmir.

A series of attempted raids on the offices of the Indian high commissioner were beaten back early this morning by stick-swinging Karachi policemen.

Boy Is Located

A 14-year-old Monessen youth, Jack Dodaro, of 34 Court avenue, whom Monessen police reported as missing from his home yesterday, was located in Toledo, O., today, reports stated. No details were available.

'Dishwasher' Confesses Then Denies Killings

CHICAGO (UP)—A major suspect in the mysterious death of two teen-aged girls has reportedly confessed and repudiated his admission of the crimes several times, Chicago police said today.

Lt. James McMahon said that Sheriff Joseph Lohman told him Bennie (The Dishwasher) Bedwell, 21, had "been off and on" in his admissions, which allegedly took place Friday when Bedwell was taken to where the girls' bodies were found last Tuesday.

McMahon quoted Lohman as saying Bedwell "admitted and then recanted" to having killed the girls. Both officials emphasized, however, that further checking had to be done into the matter.

Meanwhile, a South Side hotel clerk positively identified the two dead Grimes sisters as the girls who checked into the Claremont Hotel Dec. 30.

Police said Colin McLay identified the hotel guests as 15-year-old Barbara Grimes and her 13-year-old sister, Patricia, whose unclothed bodies were found

MAYOR'S FATHER BURIED THIS MORNING — Funeral services were held this morning for Anthony J. Parente, father of Mayor Hugo J. Parente, at St. Cajetan R. C. Church. A guard of honor was formed as the body of Mr. Parente was carried from the church prior to interment in Monongahela Valley Memorial Park. Mayor Parente, left, is shown coming out of the church with his mother, Mrs. Felicia Parente, and her son-in-law, Gene DeBlasio, of Canonsburg.

Funeral Rites Held For Father of Mayor

One of the largest funeral processions in Monessen's history was formed downtown this morning when Anthony J. Parente, 75, father of Mayor Hugo J. Parente, was buried in Monongahela Valley Memorial Park near Donora.

A special detail of about 10 policemen was on hand to handle the large crowd of mourners and heavy traffic.

The elder Mr. Parente, who died in his sleep of heart failure Wednesday morning, was laid out at the Edwin Melenyzer Funeral Home at 262 Donner avenue.

Crowds estimated in the thousands had viewed the body in a room banked ceiling high with floral tributes from Wednesday evening until the funeral this morning. Hundreds of mass cards were given to the Parente family.

Many Public Officials

Included in the visitors were numerous national, state and local public officials and political figures ranging from congressmen and judges to Democratic precinct chairmen. Republican as well as Democratic officials paid tribute. Mayor Parente is a Democrat.

Mr. Parente's brother, the Rev. Dr. Pascal Parente, of Catholic University, Washington, D. C., officiated at the requeim high mass held at 10 o'clock at St. Cajetan Roman Catholic Church. Following mass, the large caravan of cars moved slowly to the cemetery.

State Police and valley municipal police helped direct traffic from Monessen to the cemetery.

Gas Firm Asks Court to Reverse Rebate Ruling

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Manufacturers Light and Heat Co has asked the Pennsylvania Supreme Court to reverse a Superior Court order directing the firm to issue a $352,000 rebate on a rate increase in effect since last January.

The utility also asked the Supreme Court Friday to return the original rate grant of $3 million to the Public Utility Commission for an additional increase of $381,000.

Manufacturers' petition additionally sought a Supreme Court order delaying the rebates, averaging about $1.45 a year per customer, pending a decision on the appeal. The refunds presently due the company's 243 western Pennsylvania customers cover gas sales since Jan. 20, 1956.

The company contended the Superior Court reduction, which reduced the rate of return allowed Manufacturers from 6.5 per cent to 6.3 per cent, was "not justified by the data and testimony in the case."

Manufacturers also argued that it deserves an additional $381,000 increase atop the original rate grant because the PUC "ruled incorrectly in its original rate grant by not making a sufficient allowance for the company's income tax requirements.

This was the second Superior Court ruling appealed by Manufacturers. Last Wednesday, the Supreme Court refused to hear the first appeal which requested a review of a November Superior Court order directing Manufacturers to issue rebates totaling some $286,000 from a $3,996,000 increase allowed in September, 1954.

Find Old Mine In London Port

LONDON (UP)—Shipping in the Port of London came to a halt today while Navy bomb disposal experts hauled away a high explosive land mine found buried in the mud Friday.

The bomb was to be towed out to sea and exploded during the day. Ships were ordered not to use their propellers now that the mine has been uprooted for fear that mere noise might explode it.

Naval bomb disposal experts said the 1,200-pound parachute mine may have been dropped in the Thames in the 1940 blitz.

Former Victim Of Polio Now Has Leukemia

RALEIGH, N C. (UP) — The parents of a former polio victim now stricken with the dread killer leukemia today appealed for cards and comic books to cheer the little girl's last days.

Five-year-old Wanda Jean Wilkins who has been sick five times in the course of her short life, once with polio, was stricken with the fatal blood disease in December.

The disease was diagnosed at Duke Hospital where she was sent after local doctors were unable to determine the exact nature of her illness.

Doctors said they did not know how long the little girl would live but told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilkins of Raleigh that the last stage of the illness would begin with severe pains.

The pains started three days ago in little Wanda's arms and have spread to her legs and back. Only heavy doses of drugs are able to stop the pain for any length of time.

Her parents said "We hope that the cards and comic books, will distract her and help to keep her mind off the pain."

FBI, 'Mounties' in Joint Quest as Ring Is Cracked

NEW YORK (UP) — Investigation of a newly disclosed Soviet spy ring was reported to have spread to Canada today.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police were known to be investigating possible Canadian connections in the new espionage ring, uncovered Friday with the arrest of three spy suspects here on espionage charges.

Commissioner Leonard H. Nicholson, head of the Mounties, declined to comment on possible Canadian links with the new spy net. But a senior Mountie official admitted the Mounties have been cooperating with the FBI in connection with the ring.

Federal Justice Minister Stuart Garson was said to be preparing a statement for delivery to Parliament Monday about the case.

Also on Monday, U.S. government authorities are expected to introduce evidence before a federal grand jury, implicating Soviet officials and others believed to be involved in the spy ring.

The grand jury will meet to consider indictments against three spy suspects said by the FBI to be members of a "highly-organized" Soviet espionage ring operating in the United States.

Existence of the alleged spy ring was disclosed Friday with the arrests of two naturalized American citizens and a third person awaiting citizenship.

The suspects, Jack Soble, 53, his wife, Myra, 52, and Jacob Albam, 64, all of New York, were picked up at their homes here Friday and charged with delivering U.S. defense secrets to Soviet agents. All pleaded innocent at their arraignments before a U.S. commissioner and were ordered held in $100,000 bail each, pending a hearing on Friday.

FBI Silent On Others

The FBI said "upper members" of the espionage group "are not at the present time identifiable" but it was understood that several Soviet officials may be expelled for their part in the ring.

The case appeared to involve the largest espionage conspiracy since the case of Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, who were executed for stealing U.S. atomic secrets.

Unlike the Rosenbergs, however, the Sobles and Albam were charged with conspiracy to commit espionage which does not carry the death penalty in the event of conviction. But, as the FBI pointed out, the grand jury could conceivably return indictments involving the death penalty if wartime espionage was indicated.

Charges against the Sobles and Albam date from 1947. Specifically, they were charged with conspiring "for the purpose of obtaining information respecting the national defense of the United States of America" including "documents, writings, photographs, photographic negatives and notes" for delivery to the Soviet Union.

Conviction carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $20,000 fine. They also were charged with failing to register as Soviet agents, for which they

Police Seek to Halt Integration Clashes in South

ATLANTA (UP)— Police in Mobile, Ala., and Tallahassee, Fla., today began a crack-down on integration violence.

Mobile Police Chief Dudley E. McFadyen threatened his officers with emergency measures if they don't come up with some arrests in an outbreak of violence that resulted in 20 cross-burnings, one explosion and two attempted bombings.

At the same time, the Mobile City Commission offered a $250 reward for the arrest of parties responsible for such violence and announced that "these hoodlums, these rabble-rousers should not be put in the jails. They should be put under the jails."

At Tallahassee, Police Chief Frank Stoutamire said 18 white high school students believed to "know something about" recent acts of vandalism against Negro integration leaders were warned that further action might land them in jail.

Rip Walls of Home To Find Cat's Meow

GLENDORA, Calif. (UP)— Occupants of a new $20,000 home—labeled as the "cat's meow"—today vowed to move out unless a cat which has been haunting the dwelling for the past 20 days with around-the-clock walls is found "dead or alive."

The cat is believed to be trapped somewhere within the walls of the new home and Friday workmen partially dismantled sections of walls in a futile attempt to find the feline.

"We can't stand it any longer," said Vincent Carta, who along with his wife and two children moved into the home last month. "The meowing is driving us crazy."

But the Cartas weren't the only ones with cat troubles. The home is still in escrow and building contractor H. C. Elliott won't get his money for constructing the dwelling until the cat mystery is cleared up.

The Cartas can't legally tear out a wall but Elliott can. So piece by piece, section by section, walls of the newly furnished home are being ripped out.

Cartas's wife, Eunice, who is expecting a baby in three months, Friday watched workers rip gaping holes in her newly decorated bathroom. Workmen heard meowing but found no cat.

"That cat must have 99 lives," a worker said. "But it's a cinch the animal can't survive much longer without food."

Mrs. Carta said the meows are growing weaker. She said the cat still meows "off and on" all the time and especially "when I call 'Here kitty, kitty'."

The Cartas have tried everything — even catnip — in an attempt to find the animal. Workmen, humane officers, police, firemen and volunteers have used picks, shovels, dogs and a tom cat in the so far fruitless search.

New Hungarian Secret Police in Ruthless Purge

LONDON (UP)—A hastily-reorganized secret police force, some 10,000 strong was reported today to have gone into action in Hungary in a ruthless purge of government opponents.

Diplomatic reports from behind the Iron Curtain said that to all appearances Hungary's Soviet-backed regime has ordered a get tough policy against the "enemies" of Communism.

The secret police are combing the country for "suspects" in what may develop into a purge of as yet "unseeable dimensions", the reports said.

About 400 members of revolutionary councils set up during the recent uprising were understood to have been rounded up and arrested.

They are presumably among the first victims of a wave of arrests expected to follow Premier Janos Kadar's get-tough line.

Indications were that Moscow's "guidance" is playing an important part in the Kadar government's latest moves, although Western observers have been unable to determine the extent of Russia's latest intervention.

The return of the secret police and the wave of arrests is held by observers as a strong indication that the government feels insecure and unable to restore law and order by more liberal means.

The speed with which the Kadar regime went to work in re-organizing and re-establishing the scattered secret police is considered indicative of the government's policy.

Hood Says Steel Industry Ready For Road Program

WASHINGTON (UP)—Clifford F. Hood, president of U.S. Steel Corp., says the "steel industry is geared to participate to the limit of capacity" so that steel shortages do not hinder the federal highway program.

Hood, in an appearance Friday before a Senate Public Works subcommittee, said despite the 34-day steel strike last summer "the tonnage of steel actually fabricated and erected by the structural fabricating industry in 1956 reached an all-time high and in 1957 should move even higher.

"Barring unforeseen circumstances, I know of no problem extant that cannot be surmounted by intelligent planning of the work and by timely placing of steel orders," Hood said.

Wire mesh and reinforcing bars, Hood said, "are in plentiful supply and thus no present problem.

Structural plates, however, are in much tighter supply," he said.

Standard Oil Plane Crashes; 6 Die

BRYAN, Tex. (UP)—Dense fog and a failing engine were blamed today for the crash burning of a twin-engined Standard Oil of Ohio plane that claimed the lives of all six occupants.

Airport authorities said the pilot of the stricken Beechcraft had radioed at 7:55 p.m. EST that his plane was losing oil pressure, that one engine had failed and that he was going to attempt an instrument landing in the heavy fog and drizzle.

This report was received while the plane was over Easterwood Airport at College Station, six miles south of Bryan, but the plane crashed 33 minutes later three and a half miles north of Bryan Air orce Base, which is 12 miles west of this central Texas town.

The dead, five of whom were employes of the company, were identified as Robert C. King Saud to Receive Super de Luxe Welcome

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States will roll out a super de luxe red carpet for King Saud of Saudi Arabia during his state visit next week.

President Eisenhower will personally greet the Middle East monarch when he steps from the presidential plane, Columbine III, at National Airport. It will be the first time Mr. Eisenhower has ever welcomed a visiting dignitary in such fashion. Usually he greets them at the White House

Preparations have been made to make Saud's visit one of the most lavish in recent years.

The top drawer treatment planned for the King underscored the importance the United States attached to his visit. King Saud, one of the few absolute monarchs left in the world, rules a vast oil-rich region in the critical Middle East where Russia is trying to penetrate.

Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles are especially anxious to discuss the Eisenhower Doctrine for protecting the Middle East with the visiting ruler.

So far, Saud is believed favorable to the Eisenhower plan for granting the area military and economic assistance. But he wants more details.

The 55-year-old king, a vigorous anti-Communist, is scheduled to arrive in New York Tuesday aboard the American liner Constitution, accompanied by a retinue of more than 80.

Oil Producers Of Area Urging Curb on Imports

WASHINGTON (UP)— Three Western Pennsylvania oil producing associations have joined 13 others in demanding that the government impose import curbs on foreign oil so that domestic capacity can be geared to defense needs.

The Bradford District Pennsylvania Oil Producers Assn., Independent Oil Producers Assn., both of Bradford, Pa., and the Southwest Pennsylvania Producers Assn., Washington, Pa., joined 13 other groups from throughout the country in demanding import curbs.

The oil producing groups since 1954 have urged Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming to enforce curbs which would limit imports in ratio to 1954 U.S. production. Congress authorized such restrictions in 1955 provided imports threaten the livelihood of domestic producers.

Flemming was weighing the problem when the Suez Canal was closed and cut imports to a trickle He later shelved the question, pending reopening of the canal.

Coldest Spot

NEW YORK (UP)—The United States Weather Bureau reported the coldest spot in the nation this morning was at Bozeman, Mont., where it was 46 degrees below zero.

11 Persons Have Been Convicted As Spies in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Justice Department records show 11 persons have been prosecuted in the past 10 years on charges of conspiracy to commit espionage.

Most of the charges relate specifically to Section 793 and 794 of the U.S. government code covering the gathering and transmitting of national defense information to aid a foreign government.

The most celebrated spy case since World War II involved Julius Rosenberg and his wife Ethel who were put to death June 19 1953. for passing atom bomb secrets to Russia.

Convicted along with the Rosenbergs in the same conspiracy trial were Morton Sobell, a radar expert who was given a 30-year prison term, and David Greenglass, Rosenberg's brotherin-law who was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

The first espionage case after World War II involved Judith Coplon, a Justice Department employe, who was arrested with a Russian friend, Valentine A Gubitchev, in March, 1949.

Miss Coplon was convicted twice on charges of giving secrets to the Soviets and received sentences totaling 25 years However, through appeals and mistrials which have resulted in a legal tangle, she has remained free on bond.

Gubitchev, a Soviet translator at in United Nations, was sentenced to five years imprisonment on a conspiracy count and 10 years on an espionage count. However, the sentences were suspended on condition that he leave the United States.

Czechs to Seek Better Trade Deal in Russia

VIENNA (UP) — Communist Czechoslovakian President Antonin Zapotocky will press for a new deal in Czech-Soviet trade relations in talks with Moscow in hopes of appeasing growing unrest in the East European satellite, reliable sources said today.

Zapotocky headed an official delegation of top government and party leaders to the Soviet capital Friday for talks with the Kremlin leaders. The talks opened today.

The sources said Zapotocky will demand reorganization of the Soviet-Czech trade pacts on the basis of full equality for both partners, following the pattern of the recently renegotiated Polish-Soviet pacts.

According to the informants, Zapotocky hopes a sweeping revision of the pacts would appease the mounting unrest among Czech workers and intellectuals. It was among these two classes that the revolutions in Poland and Hungary were ignited.

President Acts To Head Off an Express Strike

WASHINGTON (UP) —President Eisenhower has taken steps to head off a threatened Teamsters strike against the Railway Express Agency that could result in a transportation tieup.

Mr. Eisenhower Friday set up a three-man emergency board to investigate a contract dispute between the two groups. Establishment of the board postponed any strike action for 60 days.

Members of the special panel will be named within a few days.

The union represents railway express truck drivers at New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago, Detroit, and San Francisco.

The union had threatened a strike to secure a 30-cent hourly wage hike, dues check-off system. They also want improvements in vacations, health and welfare benefits and work schedules.

Negotiations began a year ago and federal mediators stepped into the dispute last August. The talks broke off last month.

'Humanation' Is Viewed as Next Industry Move

AMHERST, Mass. (UP) — A Pennsylvania businessman who once was a union official said today that "humanation is the next major development in American industry."

Humanation, said President Harold J. Ruttenberg of Stardrill-Keystone Co., Beaver Falls, is "the full release of the human creativeness of the working and managing forces voluntarily cooperating with each other."

Addressing the sixth annual management seminar of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, Ruttenberg said a "pay-by-the-year program" that assures adequate annual income for everyone will be necessary or humanation to work.

Ruttenberg, once United Steelworkers research director, told the manufacturers that automation "will not bear enough fruit . . .to meet America's needs."

Boy Is Acquitted Of Killing Father

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa. (UP)— James G. Wyland, 16, was free today after three months in Blair County jail on a charge of murdering his father.

A jury acquitted the boy Friday night after hearing a defense plea that he shot his father, Frank, 41, accidentally while attempting to protect his mother.

Fluorscopes in Shoe Stores to Be Eliminated

HARRISBURG (UP)—Fluoroscopes used in some shoe stores to check the fit of shoes have been outlawed in Pennsylvania after Feb. 1, the state Health Department announced.

Dr. Jan Lieben, director of the department's Industrial Hygiene Division, said that inspection indicated that the machines emit nearly three times the radiation dose limit established by radiation regulations for non-medical exposure of occupationally-exposed persons. Lieben said that excessive doses of ionizing radiation are considered particularly harmful to children.

About 600 such machines are now in operation in the state, the department said, and the owners will have about one month to comply with the new regulation, after which the department said it expects to start inspections and possible prosecutions for non-compliance.

The department said a representative of "one of the nation's largest shoe retail merchants associations" declared recently that "no competent shoe fitter needs the services of fluoroscopy machines to tell whether or not a shoe fits."

Helicopter Lands On Playground

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Army plans to fly one of its helicopters from an elementary school playground in suburban Mt. Lebanon today where it was forced to land because of fog.

Capt. Walter Stewart, Pittsburgh, the pilot, said fog clouded the helicopter "bubble" and he decided to land on the playground of the Markham grade school. Stewart is based at Pittsburgh's South Park Army installation.

Army sentries guarded the helicopter all night.

Eastern Railroads May Raise Fares After Feb. 1

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized 17 eastern railroads to raise first-class and coach fares five per cent.

The increase is similar to one granted western railroads on Dec. 31, 1956. The eastern roads may put the increase into effect by giving the commission two days advance notice anytime after Feb. 1.

The ICC said Friday in authorizing the hike that the railroads had shown they were "justly entitled" to it. The ICC said they were in need of the additional revenue.

The railroads granted the fare increases are: The Ann Arbor Railroad Co.; The Baltimore & Ohio; Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad Co.; the Central Railroad Co. of New Jersey; Chicago, South Shore and South Bend Railroad; The Delaware and Hudson Railroad Corp.; The Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western Railroad Co.; Detroit and Macinac Railway Co.; Erie Railroad Co.; Grand Trunk Western Railroad Co.; The Mackinac Transportation Co.; Monon Railroad; The New Jersey and New York Railroad Co.; The New York and Long Branch Railroad Co.; The New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Co.; The Virginian Railway Co., and Wabash Railroad Co.

Democrats Deny Any Effort to 'Get' Dulles

Republicans Score Harsh Questioning of Secretary

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Democrats today rejected as "wrong" Republican charges that they were trying to destroy Secretary of State John Foster Dulles by critical questioning on the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), one of the most outspoken of Dulles' critics, and Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) denied that intensive Democratic questioning of Dulles was a "concerted effort" to harass and harm him.

The strongest GOP charge came Friday from Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt) as Dulles and GOP senators struck back at Democratic critics of administration foreign policy. Aiken accused some Democratic senators of a "concerted effort to destroy" Dulles "personally and politically."

The charges grew out of two developments:

—Critical questioning of Dulles by several Democratic members of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

—Fulbright's demand for a full review of Eisenhower foreign policy before the Senate votes on the doctrine.

Want Policy Review

Although prospects were slim for the Senate committees holding up action on the doctrine, Fulbright said he was optimistic that they will vote Monday to conduct a foreign policy review after acting on the Eisenhower proposal. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex) put an informal damper on Fulbright's proposal for holding the review first by saying he hoped for early Senate action on the resolution.

At the same time in other developments on the Eisenhower Doctrine which would give President Eisenhower standby authority to check Communist penetration:

—Dulles ended four days of public testimony before the Foreign Affairs and Armed Services Committees late Friday. He was on the stand a total of 20 hours and 28 minutes. He was scheduled to return Monday for closed door questioning.

—The House is expected to begin debate on the doctrine Tuesday or Wednesday. Approval is expected by Friday.

—Sen. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore), who questioned Dulles for hours, introduced a substitute for the doctrine. It would authorize use of $200 million for economic aid in the Mid-East area as asked by the President. It also would authorize use of troops under certain conditions, but it puts greater emphasis on aid programs through the United Nations. It also calls for further steps to settle the smoldering Arab-Israeli dispute.

Cancer Society Refuses United Fund Donations

PITTSBURH UP) — Funds rasied by Pittsburgh's United Fund for cancer research have been rejected by the American Cancer Society.

Walter J. Kohler, chairman of the ACS board, said in New York Friday the money could not be accepted under the society's national, state and local policy governing fund raising. The Pittsburgh fund raised the money in the name of "Cancer Research Service and Education."

Kohler, former governor of Wisconsin, made the announcement after a "friendly, thorough discussion" with Pittsburgh leaders of the UF and national and Pittsburgh leaders of the Society.

"Our policy established in 1954 after a year of conferences with representatives from all 60 divisions, does not permit any unit, not then in federation, to go into federation," Kohler said.

Kohler said the Society would conduct its normal educational and fund - raising crusade in Pittsburgh this April with Admiral Ben Moreell, chairman of the board of Jones ? Laughlin Steel Corp,, as campaign chairman.

Congratulating Pittsburgh on its "brilliant achievement" in the United Fund, Kohler said "we hope that in April the citizens of that city will give similar generous support to the American Cancer Society in its efforts to save lives from cancer."

GIs Must Be 'Dignified' on Airwave Shows

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department has advised servicemen that they may appear on radio and TV shows, only if they are dignified and do not interfere with the "regular engagement of performers."

The department also said in the regulation released Friday, that the programs must be judged by Pentagon authorities to be in the "best interest of the Department of Defense."

If a serviceman suddenly finds himself involved in an audience participation program he must conduct himself in a way reflecting credit on the military profession, the regulation said.

It said "entertainment" programs approved for servicemen participation are those observing national holidays, those originating from military bases, those with no commercial counterpart and those where the secretary of defense deems an appearance would be "in the national interest."

to move slowly on any proposal to scrap the present Turnpike Commission setup. Senate Majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) has been absent since the Legislature opened the 1957 session, but he is expected to be present when the chamber returns Monday.

Sen. Robert D. Fleming (R-Allegheny) has scheduled a meeting Monday morning of a special Senate committee which has made a year-long study of the Turnpike Commission's affairs. Fleming is chairman of the group.

The administration plans to rebuild the Turnpike Commission have taken much of the edge off the Assembly uproar touched off by the firing of Labor and Industry Secretary John R. Torquato and a general "mid-term house cleaning" by Leader.

However, two resolutions calling for joint House-Senate investigations of the administration are still pending. The resolution for an inquiry into Pardons Board operations will be on the House work calendar Monday and another Republican sponsored resolution to focus the investigation on the Labor and Industry Department is in the House Rules Committee.

Johnson said the House would continue to push for passage of measures on the work calendar with debate expected on the proposed $150,000,000 Korean bonus bill expected Tuesday. On Tuesday evening party leaders of both houses will dine with the governor and hear Leader's overall objectives for the legislative session.

dumped in a ditch last Tuesday. Lt. James Keeley said the 39-year-old clerk first identified the girls through pictures and later confirmed the identification when he viewed their bodies in a mortuary early today.

The search for clues to the sisters' sudden death led police through Chicago's Skid Row. A pawnbroker along the West Madison Street section said two girls who resembled the Grimes sisters tried to borrow money on a watch about three weeks ago. He said he turned them away, because "they looked too young."

A girl identified as Irene Dean, 19, Grand Rapids, Mich., told police Friday that Bedwell had been with her and a girl friend—not the dead girls—at the time when he was reportedly seen in a restaurant with the Grimes girls.

An inquest has been scheduled for Tuesday. Cook County Coroner Walter McCarron said the inquest was detained "out of consideration for the family."

Police Capture 'Pike Speeder In Wild Chase

PITTSBURGH (UP)—An Ohio motorist, hitting speeds of nearly 120 miles an hour, outdrove police of two states for 90 miles along the Ohio and Pennsylvania turnpikes today before he finally was caught near Pittsburgh.

Pennsylvania Troopers said the driver, Pete Zivkovich, 31, ran through two toll gates and crashed two roadblocks on the Pennsylvania Turnpike during the breakneck chase.

Arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated, Zivkovich was taken before Squire Frank Sanf at Allison Park, Pa., and then lodged in Allegheny County jail here pending a hearing.

State police said Zivkovich's wild ride began in Ohio where he outran the Ohio patrol for 40 miles. He sped through the final toll gate on the Ohio side and entered the Pennsylvania highway without stopping for his toll ticket.

A road block of red flares set up near Zelienople, Pa., also failed to faze him. He likewise scattered road flares set up farther along the pike near the Allegheny Interchange just north of Pittsburgh.

Troopers in a turnpike patrol car finally forced him to the guard rail near the 47-mile marker.

"Zivkovich said he didn't know anybody was chasing him," police said.

New British Defense Minister Due in U. S.

NEW YORK (UP)—New British Defense Minister Duncan Sandys arrives from London today on a vital defense mission for his country.

Sandys will go to Washington armed with some of the most sweeping powers ever granted a British defense minister. He is accompanied by Sir William Penney, Britain's atomic weapons chief. They will meet with Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and other top defense officials.

The purpose of Sandys visit to Washington is "to have a thorough-going exchange of views about military matters" with Wilson, the British defense leader said Friday night in London, "One of the things we shall discuss is guided missiles."

Sandys and Penney will discuss a new formula for division of Western defense responsibilities. Sandys received orders from Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Friday to devise a defense plan that can be borne by Britain's tightened economy in the wake of the expensive Suez Canal venture.

It is reported that Sandys is expected to try to obtain American guided missiles which will allow Britain to cut down on her air force manpower. The government has already cancelled orders for 100 new Hawker jet fighters and warned there will be further reductions.

Ships, Planes in Search for Three Missing Fliers

MIAMI (UP)— A small armada of ships and planes criss-crossed the Caribbean Sea south of Cuba today in a search for three fliers missing from the fiery collision of two B47 Stratojet bombers.

Three of the six crewmembers aboard the two planes were picked up Friday from a barren island, but no trace of the other three was found before nightfall ended the search.

More planes and ships were ordered to the scene at dawn.

At the same time, Navy divers went into shallow waters where parts of the wreckage were reportedly spotted Friday.

The three survivors, who are all in "good condition and suffering only from shock," were identified as Maj. James McGree McFarland Jr., 37, son of John McFarland, Watsontown, Pa.; Maj. Winfred E. Lynn, 33, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Elmer Lynn of Paducah, Ky., and 1st Lt. James Edward Rose Jr., 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Rose of Dallas, Tex.

All three of the men have wives and children living near the Homestead Air Force Base near Miami, and the wives Friday night were flown to Key West, where their husbands were hospitalized.

The Air Force identified the three missing fliers as Maj. William Earl Norris, 41, son of Earl M. Norris, Lansing, Mich.; Capt. James H. Parker, 35, son of Mrs. Etta Effie Parker, Rock Hill, S.C., and 1st Lt. Earl S. Chrisawn Jr., 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Chrisawn, Sumter, S.C.

Boy Accidentally Hangs Himself

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP)—Five-year-old Eugene Campbell hanged himself accidentally at his home here Friday while playing "cowboy."

Eugene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Campbell, was rushed to Washington Hospital after being found unconscious by his grandfather, Arthur C. Campbell. He was pronounced dead shortly after arrival.

Sorry, but We Can't Pick Up!

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) said he and some fellow congressmen were walking through the Capitol a few days ago discussing President Eisenhower's new record peacetime budget and the $274 billion national debt. "We got into an elevator and found an Indian and his squaw standing there," Brown said. "We told him we had been talking about giving the country back to the Indians. " 'No, no, no!' the Indian replied. 'Owe too much! Owe too much!' "

The New Chairman

THE ELECTION of H. Meade Alcorn, of Connecticut, as the new chairman of the Republican National Committee to succeed Leonard Hall, who resigned, is being interpreted by many political observers as a victory for President Eisenhower's "new Republicanism" over the party's old guard.

If this is true, it could not have been a very hard victory to win. For it is simply inconceivable that, after one of the greatest electoral performances in history, the President could not have as chairman of his party's national committee whomever he wanted in that position. The remarkable thing about this choice is that any Republican politician in his right senses would oppose it, if any did, which we doubt.

This is not the same as saying, however, that the President wants or would be able to eliminate old guard thinking from the Republican party. And while we approve in general of the "new Republicanism" as we understand it — certainly we approve of Mr. Eisenhower — we do not think it is desirable to exterminate the old guard in either of our political parties.

There are some dedicated, able and thoroughly patriotic men and women who can be accurately described as old guards. If, for example, the late Senator Robert Taft, was an old guardsman, as is popularly supposed, we would be perfectly happy to see a whole flock of individuals of his calibre sitting in Congress.

President Eisenhower, of course, realizes this, which is why he and Senator Taft became such close and trusting friends after their historic battle at the Republican convention in 1952. And we seriously doubt that this "new Republicanism" which Mr. Eisenhower is promoting involves a purge of responsible conservative thought in the GOP. We certainly hope it doesn't.

They Should Leave

GOVERNOR Leader's proposal that the two members of the Turnpike Commission who are now under indictment and awaiting trial should voluntarily "withdraw" until the charges against them are disposed of in the courts seems to us to be proper in the circumstances.

The reluctance of these officials to comply with the Governor's suggestion is perfectly understandable. Assuming they themselves are convinced of their own innocence, to withdraw now may seem like quitting under fire, more or less a tacit admission of guilt.

Yet it seems to us that here is a place where the public interest, rather than any personal considerations, must be paramount. And surely the public interest requires that the affairs of the Turnpike Commission be directed by members wholly free to render a full-time service and unencumbered by the slightest suspicion.

There is a legal question as to whether these two members could "withdraw" now and later, in case they are cleared, be restored to their positions without penalty. The Commission has only five members when fully manned and so could hardly spare two for an extended period and still function properly.

But if this question cannot be resolved in keeping with the spirit of our laws which hold that a man is innocent until proven guilty, we are still inclined to feel that persons under indictment on charges of fraud ought not to remain in positions of high public trust while the cloud is over them.

Attlee's Lecture

WHEN a man who has been a leading statesman of another country comes to the United States to deliver a series of lectures, it seems fair to assume that he has something which he regards as important that he wants to say to the American people.

But after listening to the speech made by Earl Attlee, the former Labor prime minister of Britain, to a gathering of district Rotarians on Thursday evening, we are still wondering what it was that his lordship wanted to say that he thought was worth the long jounrey which he and his wife had to make in order to say it.

Rotarians, almost by definition, are altruistic folks. Which is why you can gather 1,200 of them into a room for an evening devoted to what is called "international understanding".

But the amount of such understanding that can be generated from a disconnected string of platitudes seems to us to be negligible even though they are uttered by a man who once was in the first rank of world statesmen.

Some sections of British officialdom never have had a high opinion of the astuteness of the American public, especially in world affairs. And while we do not like to seem rude to a distinguished visitor, we think it would be wrong to allow Earl Attlee to return to his country with pocketful of fat lecture fees under an impression that his American listeners thought they had received their money's worth. We may be dumb, as the fellow said, but we are not stupid.

Merry-Go-Round—

Taft Wing of GOP May Buck Alcorn

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Below - surface bitterness over H. Meade Alcorn's selection as GOP national chairman is such that many Taftites have sworn privately to resist his leadership.

These followers of the late Senator Taft believe Ike's "modern Republicans" are leading the party to political ruin by trying to remodel it not in Ike's "own image," but in the Democratic Party's image. They consider Alcorn's appointment as the final affront to the conservative wing. Already they have nicknamed him derisively "ACORN from the Nutmeg State."

Mr. Pearson

Conservatives in Congress are parucularly upset over Alcorn's pledge to strengthen the Republican National Committee. They interpret this to mean that he will try to dictate policy to Republican congressmen. If he tries this, they have sworn to fight him.

Alcorn was actually picked by outgoing GOP chief Len Hall and Assistant President Sherman Adams, the same political twosome who persuaded President Eisenhower to run again. Ike went along with their selection.

Ike Wanted Alcorn

When an official GOP delegation called on the President to ask his choice, however, he turned the tables on them and requested their recommendation instead. The delegation knew, and he knew, of course, who was to be selected.

"We came her to find out who you want," politely protested spokesman Harry Darby, who himself had been favored for the chairmanship by conservatives.

Finally Ike said he would "appreciate it very much if the committee would name Meade Alcorn."

Some conservatives were annoyed with Ike for asking the delegation's recommendation when it was well known he had already decided on Alcorn. They grumbled privately that the National Committee was nothing more than a "rubber stamp for the White House" and might as well cease to function.

Alcorn was "elected" national chairman by voice vote. Hall asked for the voice vote with a sheepish smile after announcing the President's choice.

Conservatives are undecided what to do about Alcorn. Some want to fight him openly. Others prefer to wait until after the 1958 congressional elections. They are convinced the Democrats will win and figure this is the best way to discredit him.

But whether silent or open, Ike has a serious conservative revolt on his hands.

Note: Hall would like to be appointed Secretary of Commerce. the post is already occupied, however, by Sinclair Weeks, who has no intention of giving it up voluntarily. As a compromise, White House aides are talking about giving Hall an important foreign post to groom him for running as Governor of New York.

Anti-labor Johnson?

It's been discussed only in backstage whispers, but Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson has been trying to appoint anti-labor Democrats on the Senate Labor Committee. He has explained privately that he wanted to get some "conservative thinking" on the committee.

First, Johnson maneuvered to appoint freshmen Sens. Frank Lausche of Ohio and Herman Talmadge of Georgia to the committee, both unpopular with organized labor. Lausche pulled a face at the suggestion and indicated he would rather serve on the Judiciary Committee.

Johnson then lined up South Carolina's Dixiecrat Sen. Strom Thurmond, also with an anti-labor reputation. But Oregon's liberal Sen. Wayne Morse got wind of the plot and notified Democratic leaders that he wanted the Labor Committee assignment.

At first Senator Johnson demurred.

"I don't think it can be done," he said. "The committees have all been assigned."

Morse was persistent.

"I made it clear that after the election I wanted to go back to the Labor Committee," he said.

"Remember that I sat for two years as a Democrat by my own selection; now I'm here by election," warned Morse. "I want to warn you that you had better not put a junior to me on that committee."

"OK," replied Johnson. "Don't make it too tough for me. You go back and write me a letter, and we'll see what we can do."

Morse got his appointment.

Along Pennsylvania Avenue

Irony of Inauguration: Senator Knowland, who was so sore at Vice President Nixon's ruling on filibustering that he almost blew his top, was the man who administered the oath of office to Nixon.

'Joe!'

Today and Tomorrow—

Eisenhower Goal too Broad

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The second inaugural is a statement of the President's ideals and of his hopes It does not contain any definition of the policies, much less of the programs, which in his mind could best realize his hopes and ideals. The result is to give an impression of unlimitedness, of a lack of measure, of pledges and promises beyond the bounds of what is really possible, beyond the bounds, in fact, of what he himself actually intends to do and of what Congress would actually permit him to do.

Mr. Lippmann

Thus he affirmed with great energy his opposition to isolationism, which in its ultimately logical form is the conception of fortress America But was it not going to the other extreme to say that "we accept our own deep involvement in the destiny of men everywhere?"

Can it really be the policy of the United States government to become deeply involved in the destiny of men everywhere? In the realm of the spirit it is no doubt true that all men are brothers and that nothing human can be alien to a good man But in the realm where governments operate, it is always a question of practical policy as to where, as to how deeply, in what measure and in what degree, one government can and should involve itself with the destiny of other men.

Is it not an inflation of the moral currency for the head of a government, charged with the conduct of practical affairs, to make it appear that the alternative to a narrow isolationism is universal involvement?

What Is Our Policy?

The absence of practical policy for the real world makes it difficult to be sure one has understood the central argument of the address. The world, he said in the earlier part of the address, is divided by the divisive force of international Communism and of the power it controls. The Communist orbit is, however, shaken by the rebellion of people who, like the Hungarians, wish to be free.

Our purpose, the President went on to say, is to build a peace with justice where moral law prevails. Presumably, the realization of this ideal depends upon the ability of the peoples of the Soviet orbit, including the peoples of Russia itself, to overthrow the divisive force of international Communism.

The question which puzzles me is what is to be our own policy in the period, which may be quite prolonged, until these hopes of an internal revolution are realized. The address throws no light on that question. Yet this is the paramount question wifh which we shall be living for an indefinite time to come.

It is not a policy to sit waiting and hoping for a revolution inside the Soviet orbit which will remove the problems that international Communism presents. The President does not mean to challenge the Soviet orbit with arms. He cannot, surely, expect to defeat it with propaganda. And in the address there is no suggestion that he is thinking of negotiating with it.

World Unity Doubted

My own view is that the world has become divided, and that there is no prospect within any foreseeable future that it can be united, as the President hopes, in one world which recognizes the same moral laws. We are in a period resembling the centuries in which Christendom and a militant Islam were in conflict, and there is no more prospect of a universally accepted moral order now than there was then. It may even be misleading for the people, and distracting for the makers of foreign policy, to sponsor the idea that a universal moral order is an attainable goal of American foreign policy.

Our true goal, it seems to me, is to sustain our own moral order among the peoples who in fact subscribe to the same order, and beyond that, to aim not at a universal agreement but at accommodation among deep differences — and, as against the hot stew of the ideologies, to evoke the cooling spirit of live and let live.

The worst flood since last St. Patrick's Day swept past Pittsburgh today, carrying misery and suffering to the Ohio Valley and leaving 1,200 homeless and damage mounting into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Flood-ravaged cities and towns in the Ohio and trans-Mississippi River Valleys broadcast appeals for food and water today, while fire and disease added to the suffering of more than 605,000 refugees who abandoned their homes to the highest waters in history. Eleven stricken states reported 97 deaths.

A Pretty Great Guy Is Working for Us

By HARRY R. PORE, Jr.

It's pretty well understood around this town, I think, that one of the big reasons the Monessen Chamber of Commerce does such a consistently good job of community building is named George Cieply, who is the Chamber's executive manager.

Without detracting anything from the efforts of the officers, directors and members, I will be so bold as to say that if we didn't have George in this job, we would have to invent him. And that would take some doing as I'm sure the blueprints were destroyed when the original model was produced.

George has a good deal of the town booster in him — he probably wouldn't have his present job if he hadn't. And boosters, while everybody agrees they are necessary, can get mighty tiresome. But George doesn't get tiresome — or tired, either, I may add.

George is the inveterate optimist, too. I see him at least once almost every day and I have yet to see him engaged in a civic operation that he didn't think was going to be a whale of a success even when I thought he ought to know better.

He gets ideas by the dozen Quite often he tries them out on me, usually over a cup of Pierce Johnson's elegant home brew after the morning mail has been opened. I am not one to throw a hat in the air quickly, even for George and especially not in the wee hours of the business day. But on every occasion, and they are quite numerous, when I have reacted sourly to one of George's inspirations, I felt like I just kicked a dog.

Sees Best Side

But it makes no difference to George. If that idea's no good (and don't think he just takes my word for it), he's got a million of 'em.

The really notable Cieply trait, however, is the habit of looking the best side of everything. As an example, we both attended the Rotary dinner at Twin Coaches Thursday evening at which Earl Attlee, the former British prime minister, was the speaker.

Attlee hadn't been talking for three minutes before I knew we were being "took". I had heard it reported, apparently reliably, that he was receiving a fee of $2,000, and it was evident to me that his lordship wasn't touring the United States to advance the education of the American public.

Anyhow, I thought the speech stunk, to use an old socialist expression.

But not George Cieply. He didn't actually say that Attlee's speech wasn't a bust — George is no hypocrite. What he said was that he thought many people were interested in the British accent, and he felt the Rotary ladies must have enjoyed seeing Lady Attlee. You see what I mean?

The wonderful thing about George's habit of putting everything in the best possible light is that there is nothing artificial about it. The guy's mind just works that way — he's being himself absolutely. And it's bound to be contagious.

Christmas Story

But to give you a still better idea of the kind of fellow we have working for Monessen, you ought to know how George spent last Christmas eve.

He and his wife, Dolores, have no children, which makes things a little tough at Christmas. And George says Dolores was in the kitchen making cookies while he stayed in the living room watching television and feeling sorry for himself. Then one of his better ideas struck.

He went to the Chamber office and got the suit which the downtown "Santa" had used during the Christmas shopping period. He came home and put it on and Dolores gave him an expert make-up job.

Off he went in his Chevy, leaving Dolores with her cookies. And one after another he went to about ten homes where he knew there were small children, explaining in each case that Santa was making a quick inspection tour before his all-important visit to come after midnight.

Santa heard the last-minute requests, told how hard he had been working at the North Pole, inquired about the children's past conduct and finally, in several cases, actually presided over the bedtime prayers and tucked in the covers.

The day after Christmas, George could hardly wait to tell me about it:

"It was wonderful, Harry. Why they hugged me and kissed me. They believed I was really Santa Claus. And how the parents seemed to appreciate it — really. Well, it was just the best evening and the best Christmas I ever spent in my whole life."

"Now, George," I said, "take it easy. You and Dolores must have had many wonderful evenings in your time. You had a lot of fun, probably, but it couldn't have been the most wonderful evening in your whole life."

"I'm telling you it was," he said. "If you could just have seen the looks on some of those kids' faces you'd know I'm telling you the truth."

That was one of the times I had to go along.

Bird 'Hunt' Fails to Identify Some Visitors

By JOHN H. DAY

The January nightfall found the valley shrouded in the frosty haze which portends zero readings. An expectant hush possessed the countryside as the wild folk in the thickets prepared to do homage to the Frost King. By midnight the skies had cleared to a hard brilliance which set the Dog Star blazing while the relentless cold closed in. At dawn the mercury had plunged to five below, and every window in the valley bore the bold signature of the artist who works in ice.

The countryman rolled out onto a cold floor and spent a hurried half-hour building fires. A quick look from the back porch revealed business as usual over the back fences. As the morning advanced the sun took advantage of a cloudless sky and the zero birds flitted cheerfullyabout the business of picking up breakfast as though it were mid-July.

Well wrapped and booted against the cold and the clean three-inch snowfall, the countryman sallied forth armed with a broom to sweep clear the garage driveway. This commotion soared up a flock of feeding pheasants, who took off from the side yard and planed to greater privacy in a neighboring stubble-field.

Strange Visitors

A patrolling crow took observations from a safe height and flew back to his base, dropping a few sarcastic remarks over his shoulder. Everything would have been all right if a flight of sparrow-sized birds hadn't flown across high overhead, gossiping in bird language completely foreign to the countryman. These fellows looked almost white in the sunlight. They stopped in the trees on the steep hillside just across the wide stream behind the house.

The countryman dropped his broom and set off in hot pursuit of these strange visitors. A new bird is a new bird, whether the thermometer stands at zero or not. He picked up a walking stick from the cellar, waded through the snow to the back fence, and was soon in the tangles by the creek side.

The creek breaks over a stony ledge in a wide rippling curve near this point. Here the pursuer broke the rim ice and tentatively measured the depth against his knee boots. All went well until within a step or two of the far bank, when the left boot shipped a small quantity of the icy water.

Scrambling out of the creek bed via convenient saplings, the countryman made his way across a cattail swamp and onto the railroad right-of-way. He followed the rails for a hundred yards or so and then struck off up the hillside, reaching a roadway high above the stream. Another hundred yards and he stood in the area where he had "marked down" the unknown birds.

A convenient fence post made a good "lean-to". Comfortably at ease against this support, the countryman stood quietly on the sunny hillside until the clamor aroused by his appearance died down. Soon the feathered folk resumed their active feeding. A whole convention of cardinals was in session, with more than a dozen of the brilliant males in the entourage.

'Hunt' Fails

The usual January complement of chickadees, titmice, juncoes and tree sparrows wandered by, while songsparrow or two stayed close by the creekside tangles. Once or twice the strange call note came down from somewhere in the trees, but the hunter had nary a glimpse of the unknown quarry. After a half-hour the chill began to tell and the countryman gave up the quest as a dry run.

A quick skidding descent through the trees brought him once again to the railroad tracks. The snow story revealed where other trespassers had used this road bed. Cottontails, exploring the countryside, had come out of the thickets, hopped leisurely along by the rails for a rod or two, and then turned back to the bramble patches.

Credit Barker If League Develops

If a proposed football conference of district Class A schools ever materializes, give a lot of credit to Bellmar High principal Raymond Barker. As chairman of the steering committee, Barker has presided through a series of long meetings, which have produced more words than action. However the patient Barker feels the Conference is definitely headed toward reality . . . As matters stand now, the football league will be divided into East and West Sections. Comprising the East will be German, North Union, South Union, Scottdale and Bellmar. Listed in the West are California, Burgettstown, Chartiers, Carmichaels and Jefferson. Two other schools, Pt. Marion and the new Masontown jointure, have expressed serious interest.

Ignatius Hokaj, junior high basketball coach at Donora, is a busy fellow. He's just been approved by the PIAA as a football, basketball and track official . . . Speaking of the PIAA, that body has advised schools to select their basketball timekeepers and scorers with care. "The work of these two officials has become so important that only unbiased and trained adults can be used," advises the PIAA . . . A new attendance record was set last week at the Laurel Mountain Ski Slopes. No less than 2,440 skiers were on hand . . . And how about a pat on the back for veteran City Basketball League coach Joe Heath. He has his Big Five Cagers right in the middle of the current race.

Tickets for Trotters Going Fast

Tickets for the Harlem Globetrotters appearance at the Monessen High gym on February 6 are going fast, but there are still some choice seats available. If you intend to sit in on the show, don't waste much more time in ordering your ducats . . . Stan Machock, the football-basketball official who has been ridiculed quite a bit for his controversial clipping call in the Pitt-Minnesota football game last fall, is really a nice guy according to those who know him. Machock has refused to be ruffled by all the knocks thrown in his direction . . . . Danny Lee, a Freeport product, is being boosted for future football stardom at Duke. He scored in four out of five freshmen games played by the Blue Devils last season.

In Greensburg, the basketball critics are singing the praises of a 5-10 sophomore named Bob Eicher. His coach, Harold Smith, feels Eicher will develop into another Jack Kalbfus, the Lions brilliant basketballer of a few years back . . . Pitt's wrestling team was the only Panther squad to post an undefeated record during 1956. The grapplers won all ten of their contests . . . Jack O'Brien, the Pittsburgh Steeler end from Jeannette, will leave soon for Florida University where he plans to do student teaching. Jack will also help out wit hthe Gators' spring training.

May Expand Western Conference

There's talk that the Western Football Conference, which now includes Uniontown, Washington, Mt. Lebanon and Baldwin, will be expanded next season . . . Gene (Patty) Gedman, the Duquesne product with the Detroit Lions, pulled a switch recently when he sponsored a "night" for his friends. Gedman played host to the persons who gave him a boost on his way up the sports ladder . . . Speaking of Duquesne, the Jaycees thereabouts are trying to lure the annual all-star football game to the Duquesne High stadium next August . . . Carl Crawley, fine Monessen High basketballer, has been keeping score for some City League attractions this season.

Little Embarrassed To Try 'Comeback'

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Lou Little, who retired last season as Columbia University football coach, admits that he has received a "number of offers" to coach elsewhere but embarrassment is keeping him from accepting any of them.

"There was so much fuss made about my retirement, and I received so many awards and 'farewell' dinners," Lou says with a wry grin, "that I honestly don't feel I can make a 'comeback.' If I did, I'd be letting down all those folks who were so nice with their farewells." Which is really going all "out" for your friends.

Umpire In Prison

There probably are many National League fans who will be glad to hear that Umpire Al Barlick is in prison. But only as a lecturer on umpiring as part of the State of Illinois prisoner rehabilitation program. But it proves where umpires come from, anyhow.

The Baltimore Orioles boast that Charley Beamon, rookie righthander, had a 16-0 record at Stockton in 1955 and had a 13-game winning streak at Vancouver last year. They oughta be braggin' about his 1-0 win over Whitey Ford in his major league debut. That's something.

Sam Snead has a fishin' feud on with his sporting goods firm partner, Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox. They had a contest on who could boat the most sail fish last year and Snead won. This year they went after bonefish and all Sam did was catch a 15-pounder for a world's record. Sam wouldn't comment on whether Williams has learned to spit to windward.

No Kind Thoughts

Pedro Martinez, the behemoth who once flung himself around the rasslin' circuit before he began promoting in such places as Buffalo and Rochester, doesn't take kindly to people who question the on-the-level character of his sport.

Recently he spoke before a group of lawyers and, when one of their number began to slip him the needle, Pedro quoth haughtily:

"Recently I talked before a group of prisoners at San Quentin. Gentlemen, I was quite surprised to discover that there were a great many former attorneys, judges and politicians in that prison—but there wasn't a single wrestler."

Imagine!

Monessen Routs Monongahela, 55-33

Hounds Have No Trouble Winning Section 5 Game

Monessen High's rebounding basketballers coasted to an easy 55-33 win over Monongahela last night at the Wildcat floor.

The effortless decision was the fifth in six Section 5 basketball outings for the Hounds this season.

Recoiling from last Tuesday's loss to Charleroi — their first in 38 section assignments — the Hounds rolled to scoring advantages in every period against the Wildcats.

Coach Frank Janosik experimented a good part of the game, testing undergraduate combinations.

Crisi High

Frank Crisi, 6-0 senior marksman, led the Monessen scoring with 16 points. Carl Crawley 6-0 senior, added nine.

For the Monongahelans Dee Galiffa was top man with 12.

Monessen led from start to finish, rushing off to a quick 12-2 lead. With 3:15 to play in the half, the Hounds were in front 26-7. At that point, Janosik pulled his regulars.

The host Cats took advantage of the mercy to make the half-time score, 29-15.

The MHS regulars started in the third period again, and they quickly bolted away to a 44-24 edge. With the score, 50-25 early in the final quarter, Janosik again gave his reserves a chance to show their stuff.

The Greyhounds simply had too much skill for the home team. They out-maneuvered their hosts time and again to set up easy pops.

In contrast the Monongahelans were somewhat baffled by the Monessen defense and wound up making only 10 field goals in 47 attempts for a shooting percentage of just 21.

34 Per Cent

Monesse hit on 23 of 64 tries for 34 per cent gunning.

The loss was the sixth straight in Section 5 play for the Monongahelans who now have a 2-11 record overall this year. Monessen's season long record chart is now 10-6.

By winning with such ease at Monongahela, Janosik's dribblers made it plain that they're not ready yet to give up in the bid for valley honors this season.

Pompey Challenges Moore to Bout

BERLIN (UP) — Trinidad's Yolane Pompey challenged ancient Archie Moore to defend his light heavyweight title today but admitted he may never get the old champ into the ring with him.

"We will apply for a title bout with Moore," said Manager Snowy Buckingham after Pompey knocked out German and European champion Gerhard Hecht in the second round Friday night. "But I do not believe that Moore will defend his title again."

Moore hasn't defended his light heavyweight crown since last June 5 when he kayoed Pompey and there are numerous reports that he won't ever be able to trim down to the 175-pound weight limit again.

A crowd of 8,500 saw Pompey win recognition as Moore's chief contender from both the British Boxing Board of Control and the European Boxing Union with his decisive victory over the 33-year old Hecht.

The end came suddenly after a slow first round when Pompey buried a left hook into Hecht's stomach and the German slumped to one knee. He then rolled over onto his side and Referee Hans Bergstroem counted him out.

Bellmar High Easily Turns Back Scottdale, 68 to 59

Apparently Bellmar High's basketballers have found themselves at last.

They won their third straight game in impressive fashion last night, turning back Scottdale, 68-59, in exhibition play.

The win was the third straight for the Canes, who stumbled through most of the season until catching fire recently.

Last night's tussle was more lopsided than the final score would seem to indicate.

The Canes bolted off to a 23-13 lead in the first period. After three stanzas they were far ahead at 62-39.

It was then that Bellmar coach Jack Flora mercifully called on his bench to play the entire final period.

Share Scoring

John Hewitt and Jim Campbell shared scoring honors for the Canes, each tossing in 17 points. Both boys played fine all-around games.

Three other Canes hit in double-figures. Bob Beggs had 12 points while Jim Bitonti and Bill Schmidt added ten apiece.

In all, the Bellmar performance was about the best of the season.

For Scottdale Mike Mehallick was high with 26.

Dukes Play at St. Bonaventure

By UNITED PRESS

Duquesne University, although hampered by injuries, is determined to protect a three-game basketball winning streak when it faces St. Bonaventure in the first game of a doubleheader tonight in Buffalo's Municipal Auditorium.

The Dukes, with a 9-4 record, will probably be without the services of Jack Sauer and Bernie Matthews. Sauer is suffering from a charley horse and Matthews has a cut over his right eye. The cut suffered in practice, required eight stitches.

St. Bonaventure, which has a 9-2 record, is favored over the Dukes.

In other games tonight Youngstown plays at Geneva, Penn State is at Rutgers and Lawrence Tech visits Steubenville.

Sowell Wins in Philly; Moves On to Washington

WASHINGTON (UP)— Four of the indoor season's top stars seek to prove tonight in the Washington Evening Star Track and Field Meet that Friday night's Philadelphia story was an accident.

First among them, of course, is Laszlo Tabori, the sub-four-minute-miler from Hungary who "limped" home third behind George King's winning 4:10.1 mile in Friday night's Philadelphia Inquirer Meet. It was Tabori's first mile on boards and proved a distinct disappointment for the Hungarian who hit 3:59 for the distance in London in May, 1955.

Tabori steps up to the two-mile tonight but is expected to run into stern competition from Horace Ashenfelter, who took Friday night's event in Philadelphia in 9:01.8.

Dave Sime and Olympic champions Lee Calhoun and Tom Courtney will also be out to stage stellar performances.

Sime, who failed to make the Olympic squad because of a groin injury, wants to reverse Friday night's loss to Ira Murchison in the 50-yard dash. Murchison won the Philadelphia event in 5.4.

Cambell Wins

Calhoun, the Olympic 100-yard hurdles king, bowed to Milt Campbell in the 50-yard high hurdles in 6.1 Friday night and again will have the Olympic decathlon champion as his chief rival in tonight's 70-yard hurdle event.

Courtney, Olympic 800-meter champion, continues his battle with Pitt's Arnie Sowell in the 1,000-yard event. Sowell whipped Courtney in the Philadelphia 1,000 Friday night in 2:09.5 with five yards to spare.

Campanella Hits Back at Remarks By Robinson

NEW YORK (UP)—Roy Campanella today followed up his blast at ex-teammate Jackie Robinson's "undignified exit from baseball" with the promise: "I'll stick to my guns because he can't hurt me."

"I know I'm not through and Robinson's certainly no one to say I am," the 35-year-old Campanella said. "Jackie's made quite a few remarks and cracks since retiring but he doesn't know everything."

Campanella, three-time winner of the National League's Most Valuable Player Award, was responding to a recent interview in which Robinson said Roy couldn't be expected to stage a comeback from his poor 1956 season in 1957. In the midst of doing so, he also leveled sharp criticism at "the manner in which Jackie quit baseball" and revealed the strained relationship between the two great Negro stars that existed in recent years.

Not Like Him

"When it's my turn to bow out of baseball, I certainly don't want to go out like he did," Campanella said. "It just wasn't the dignified way to do it."

Asked whether the sweeping blast — which Campanella insisted he didn't realize would be printed — proved the two stars hadn't gotten along well in recent seasons, Roy replied:

"Well, you can play with a guy but not want to live with him. I always steered clear of him when he was doing that popping off in the clubhouse."

Deadlocked for the leadership were Ken Venturi, San Francisco; Art Wall, Pocono Manor, Pa.; Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C.; Doug Ford, Mahopac, N. Y. and Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex. They each had 134 totals—eight strokes under par for the first 36 holes.

Machem Rallies To Beat Maxim

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — Young Eddie Machen looked around today for a shot at somebody a step closer to Floyd Patterson and the heavyweight title, while aging Joey Maxim, not discouraged at his loss to Machen, looked for a "couple of breathers."

Maxim weighed 192 for the fight and Machen 190½ pounds.

Sixth-ranked Louisville followed up its NIT triumph over Dayton by turning back the Flyers, 61-53, in overtime in the final round of the Bluegrass Tournament during the holiday season.

Third-ranked Kentucky resumes its Southeastern Conference campaign by playing always-dangerous Vanderbilt at Nashville. A victory for the Wildcats will move them into a tie with idle Tulane (4-1) for the SEC lead.

Most of Friday night's major action was concentrated in the Far West. Brigham Young retained its hold on first place in the Skyline Conference by dumping Utah State, 93-76, while California remained unbeaten in the Pacific Coast Conference by outlasting Stanford, 67-64, in overtime.

Withdraw Horse

ARCADIA, Calif. (UP) — Blessbull, owned by Travis M. Kerr, has been withdrawn from next month's $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap because of leg trouble.

Pirates Sign Two More Pitchers

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced the signings of a pair of southpaw pitchers and two infielders to raise to 27 the number on the "contented list."

Roger Sawyer, who had a 6-4 record with Hillywood of Pacific Coast League and a teammate, Fred Waters, came to terms.

Waters came to the Pirates in a deal that sent Danny O'Connell to the Milwaukee Braves.

He appeared in 14 games with the Coast League team last year and had a 4-3 record. Before joining Hollywood, Waters had appeared in 23 games with the Pirates and had a 2-2 record and a 2.82 ERA.

Dick Cole, appearing in 72 games with the Pirates as a utility infielder last year, batted .212 and was used chiefly as a pinch-hitter.

Dick Barone hit 270 with New Orleans last season and will vie for an infield job with the Pirates when spring training opens Feb. 28 at Ft. Myers, Fla.

Second Sub in Boxing Bout

HOLYOKE, Mass. (UP) —Sam Silverman is one fight promoter not easily discouraged. When Johnny Hoye withdrew from his scheduled bout with Jeff Dyer here next Monday night, Silverman picked Ike Thomas as a substitute. Then Thomas balked Friday and this time Silverman came up with Mickey Carter, who will substitute for the substitute.

Business and Industry

1957 Year of Sales Records and Big Changes in All-new DeSoto

You'll readily understand why so many people are buying that 1957 DeSoto if you go to Frank's Service Garage, 122 East Donner avenue, DeSoto—Plymouth sales and service in Monessen and the Valley and look over this great new car.

DeSoto, according to L. Irving Woolson, President, is offering a completely restyled and reengineered array of automobiles, a challenging new high of 15 individual models and body styles and the greatest total in company history.

The record number includes an altogether new model, the new lower-priced Firesweep, a sister car to the familiar Fireflight and Firedome models. This gives the De Soto line an estimated 91 per cent coverage of the entire automobile market—excepting the so-called low price, small car field, its stated.

The line will also include, for the first time, a record number of four station wagons, the increasingly popular all-purpose family-business automobile, some with special new tires requiring no "spare". Additionally, the company plans producing double the amount of station wagons it produced in 1956 to satisfy the demands of the constantly increasing market for such vehicles, Mr. Woolson stated.

Mr. Woolson futher states that the new De Sotos offer the ultimate in and they accent "ride", safety, general comfort and driver convenience. These are a host of important additions and improvments, said to represent one of the industry's most extensive over-all antomobile changes for 1957.

"Torsion-Aire suspension is but one of our many notable advances," says Mr. Woolson.

The company will offer what is declared to be the most roundly competitive product in its 28-year history, including increased horsepower for improved timing, control and response.

In fact, says Mr. Woolson, "We look upon horsepower as a very definite safety consideration when it's properly used and not abused merely as power for reckless or unregulated speeding."

All '57 De Sotos are lower (by five inches), longer appearing and roomier than any previous models, Mr. Woolson declared, and feature the greatest number of ever introduced in the company's and possibly any other automobile manufacturer's, history.

Triple-range-button Torqueflite transmission of three forward speeds, a unique all-weather, conditioning system, all-new engines, a greatly improved total contact braking system, plus nearly 35 percent more glass area are some other highlights.

"Everything considered," says J. B. Wagstaff, vice president in charge of sales, "Ds Soto will be offering consumers the most for the least, and what we consider to be the best buv in the medium price field. We believe our cars to be the very ultimate in beauty honestly feel there is no real comparison to our 1957 line."

Mr. Wagstaff further states that DeSoto confidently expects to continue its consistently gaining public acceptance, its percentage gain in the national market and its even greater penetration in its price class. The new lower-priced 122-inch wheelbase Firesweep is expected to bring new volume sales.

He concludes by saying that De Soto was measurably better off than industry average in 1956, the so-called "off" year, and that the company anticipates no decline in that pace but expects continuing improvement.

Bill Ross Will Service Car for Winter Driving

If there is ever a time of the year when a car needs a little added care then it is during the cold-weather months such as we are experiencing in this area right now and will for another two months.

That means, if you believe in good automobile operation, and car preservation, you should visit your favorite service station and have an attendant check it over for you thoroughly. This should be done at periodic intervals, based of course on how far you drive.

Lubrication is very important in Winter. Old oils and greases will congeal and fail to perform their proper function of lubrication vital parts of the automobile. By all means see that your car is lubricated every 1,000 miles and new oil put in the crankcase at the same milage. You'll find a world of difference in automotive performance and you'll be cutting down on costly garage bills. For good oil and greases are the lifeblood of any piece of machinery.

Remember, new automobiles aren't cheap to buy today so protect your car investment with the best attention possible.

Keep the battery well charged for quick and sure Winter starting. Nothing is more disgusting than to go to the garage on a cold morning, press on the starter, and find that you don't have sufficient power in the battery to turn it over. That means an expensive service call to your home. Replace the battery if it will not take a charge.

If you'll drive to the Bill Ross Penzoil Service station, 111 Donner avenue, you'll get real service with fine Penzoil products. This is also an official inspection station and remember you don't have too many days left to have that car inspected.

Play it safe—drive to the Bill Ross Penzoil Service now!

hibn%la%u.pnow is the time for

John Says:

"On these chilly mornings don't get caught with your battery down. The generator it ruins may be your own. Let me check, recharge, or if necessary, replace your battery today."

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear brother, Pvt. Ross J. Naccarato, who was killed in Italy 13 years ago today, Jan. 26, 1944.
Duty called and he was there,
To do his best and take his share.
His heart was good, his spirit brave,
And his resting place is a soldier's grave.
Though his smile is gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
We shall never lose sweet memories
Of the one we loved so much.
Sadly missed by Brothers and Sisters

Doctors Plan War on Polio

CHICAGO (UP)— The American Medical Assn. opened a nationwide meeting today to plot an intensive polio vaccination program.

Spurred by public apathy toward the polio menace, the AMA called a meeting of its state and territorial representatives to discuss methods of injecting Salk anti-polio vaccine into even more Americans than received it last year. The meeting was attended by several polio specialists, including Dr. Jonas Salk, discoverer of the serum.

The key target of the meeting, according to Dr. Dwight H. Murray, Napa, Calif., president of the AMA, was "eliminating the disease once and for all."

Shigemitsu Dies, Japan's Great Postwar Leader

TOKYO (UP)— Foreign diplomats and prominent Japanese leaders paid their last respects today to statesman-diplomat Mamoru Shigemitsu, who helped his country recover the prestige it lost in World War II.

Last week, the peg-legged former foreign minister told a friend: "I am tired I think I've used up all my body and spirit." He went to his holiday home in the seaside resort city of Yugawara, where he died of a heart stricture Friday at the age of 69.

Four times Shigemitsu was asked to serve as foreign minister to direct Japan's foreign policy. Four times he accepted and then resigned when he thought his task was finished. The last time was just one month ago when he returned from New York where he saw Japan accomplish one of its major goals: Membership in the United Nations.

The little ceremony in the General Assembly represented a great personal triumph for Shigemitsu, who spent four years in prison as a war criminal at the instigation of Russia, although some other Allied leaders believed he should be free to help his nation overcome the stigma of war and humiliating defeat.

When the job was shunned by all other Japanese leaders following their surrender in 1945, it was Shigemitsu who hobbled across the deck of the battleship Missouri and signed the formal surrender documents.

Generals May Be Paid Higher than Cabinet

WASHINGTON (UP)— Some of the nation's top generals and admirals would be paid more than cabinet members and congressmen under new pay proposals prepared at the Pentagon.

That became apparent today as it was disclosed that more than one million men would be affected by the proposed overhauling of military pay scales at a cost of possibly as much as $750 million.

Informed sources said Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson was expected to approve revised pay scales for presentation to Congress but nothing that would cost as much as the current proposals.

The proposals were prepared by a special committee appointed by Wilson and headed by Ralph J. Cordiner, president of General Electric Co.

Under the Cordiner plan, four star generals and admirals would receive $24,000 a year in basic pay, $574 in subsistence allowance and $2,052 in quarters allowance for a total of $26,626.

Four star officers in the Army, Navy, and Air Force today are paid about $17,300 a year in base pay and allowances. There are 28 four-star generals and admirals on active duty.

Cabinet members today are paid $25,000 a year. Congressmen are paid $22,500.

The object of the Cordiner committee proposals is to make service more attractive to highly skilled technicians needed to man the weapons of the atomic age.

The proposals generally call for wage increases for enlisted ranks above the grade of corporal.

Fair, Colder Weather Over Weekend Here

By UNITED PRESS

Fair and colder weather was forecast for Pennsylvania today with a few snow flurries expected in the western sectors.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said colder and drier air moved across the state Friday night as the result of a large high pressure system centered over the upper Mississippi Valley.

Gradually clearing will occur over most of Pennsylvania today with the exception of snow flurries continuing in the west and mountain sectors. Tonight will be mostly fair and colder except for snow flurries in the mountains.

High temperatures today will be in the 20's or low 30's and the expected lows tonight will range from 8 to 16 in the north and west to 12 to 20 in the southeast counties.

Sunday will be rather windy and quite cold with some cloudiness in the mountains and snow flurries near Lake Erie.

Getting Tot to Sleep

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

It's quite natural for fast-growing youngsters to feel tired. It's when they don't feel tired that you may have trouble.

You can't expect a youngster of two or three to have a three-hour afternoon nap and then be ready for bed at 6 p. m. Cut down the afternoon napping period if it doesn't make him too tired by evening.

But even this won't guarantee that your little tyke will willingly toddle off to bed when you want him to. He may begin to cry or scream. And the moment your back is turned he might hop out of bed.

The best thing to do in such cases is to talk calmly to him. Recite some nursery rhymes or maybe tell him a short, short story and make him go back to bed.

Don't however, remain in his room playing games or reading to him. And don't lie down beside him until he's asleep.

Above all don't argue with him. Convince him that you don't actually care whether he lies down. If he gets out of bed a second time, ignore him. Let him go back to bed by himself. You know perfectly well that he probably will do the opposite of what you desire if you quarrel or argue with him.

Don't slap your youngster, either. Remember, he wants to be with you instead of going to bed simply because he loves you and wishes your company.

There are a couple of things to keep in mind that will be of help in getting your child to bed and to sleep.

Avoid fights and tension during the day. I've already cautioned you to consider your child's requests and questions justly. Don't give him an automatic No. Remember that a peaceful and contented youngster is apt to go to sleep more readily than a pouting one.

His bedtime routine is important, too, just as it is for an adult.

Brushing his teeth and saying his prayers should become a nightly ritual for your youngster. He will soon realize that when these things are accomplished, his day is over. They serve as an unconscious signal to go to sleep.

Babies, of course, present a different problem. I'll deal with this in a future column.

As I said, it's natural for growing children to be tired. If your youngster is constantly overtired, however, he needs a physical checkup.

Make sure he's getting enough to eat.
